1. An informant, who had been employed in the Zeiss measuring laboratory, reports that most of the instruments listed below were sent to Techno-pro-Import at Moscow, although some orders were filled for Soviet universities and experimental stations. (Recently large orders were received for the repair of AA apparatus):

Rapid photometers (Schnellphotometer)

Crystal refractometers (Kristallrefraktometer)

Color refractometers (Pulphrichrefraktometer)

Abbekomperatoren

Agricultural refractometers (all types)

Mine gas spectrometers

Three-prism spectrographs } used for analysis of metals

Spectrographs Q-12 and Q-24.)

Abbe Handspectroscope

Schalenprüfgeräte für Flugzeugindustrie (to calculate possible deviation of the angle of curvature of the gunner's turret in aircraft, an unfinished GAF project)

2. Informant also refers to the "Zeiss Millionenobjekt, eine Gitterteilmaschine", an apparatus worked on for twenty years and set up in the cellar under the measuring laboratory. It is said to have been developed for use during the war. Whether this machine is to be dismantled or not is not known.
